

Puebla Chapelmasters and Organists: Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries

PART II

Gaspar Fernandes

In 1590 Évora Cathedral hired twelve musicians, two as shawmers, two as sackbutts, one as bassist and shawmer, the rest as singers. The most famous-to-be of the lot, Filipe de Magalhães, earned 3$000, the same amount paid every other musician on the cathedral payroll except two junior singers at 2$000 each and the senior bassist and shawmer at 4$000. Gaspar Fernandes earned two salaries, 3$000 as singer, and another 2$000 for undesignated services.²⁸ Cosme Delgado, titular chapelmaster of Évora Cathedral since April 3, 1563, died September 17, 1596. Manuel Mendes, head of the Évora Cathedral choirschool (mestre da claustra) from about 1582 to his death at Évora September 24, 1605, not only taught Magalhães, Duarte Lobo, but also probably all of Magalhães's fellow singers in the 1590 census.²⁹

On July 16, 1599, Guatemala Cathedral hired Gaspar Fernandes, by now a priest, as both organist and organ tuner for 200 gold pesos.³⁰ As preliminary condition he was required to finish tuning the organs. By 1602 Guatemala Cathedral was hiring him as both maestro de capilla and organist. In that year he copied into a now lost Guatemala Cathedral choirbook six Masses, each a 4: Pedro Bermúdez's Missa de Bomba (IAMR, v/2, 26),³¹ Masses by Rodrigo de Ceballos³² in Tones III and VIII, an unidentified Mass by Pierre Colin in Tone VI, Cristóbal de Morales's Missa sobre las voces [hexachord], and Palestrina's Missa Sine nomine from the Liber

Mário de Sampayo Ribeiro, A Música em Portugal nos séculos XVIII e XIX (Bosquejo de história crítica) (Lisbon: Inácio Pereira Rosa, 1938), p. 38, equated sacabuxas with trombones and baixão with bassoon.

³⁰Guatemala Cathedral, Libro de el IIIº Cabildo de Santiago de Guatemala delos aquerdos . . . que se acen desde el Año de 1599: en adelante, fol. 16v: "por quanto el padre gaspar fernandes presbitero es diestro en la musica y terna cuidado de tañer el organo en esta cathedral atento a lo qual le nonbraban y nonbraron por organista con el salario de ducientos pesos de oro de minas con condicion que acabe de afinar los organos e los tenga todos afinados."

³¹Bermúdez's parody source, La Bomba, was published in Las Ensaladas de Flecha (Prague: Jorge Negrino, 1581). For facsimile of manuscript tenor part (Barcelona: Biblioteca de Catalunya, Ms 588), see MGG, iv (1955), 293.

³²Bermúdez's Granada connections probably account for the Tertii toni and Simile est regnum coelorum masses by Rodrigo de Ceballos, chapelmaster of the Capilla Real at Granada from 1561 to his death in 1581. The second Ceballos mass parodies the same Cristóbal de Morales motet parodied by Francisco Guerrero in 1582.

Secvndvs of 1567 dedicated to Philip II. In the 1760's these same six Masses were recopied in what is now Choirbook I at Guatemala Cathedral.³³

Fernandes's next and final appointment took him to Puebla Cathedral. As was shown in Part I, the tradition of hiring first-class maestros began at Puebla Cathedral at least as early as 1566, on January 8 of which year Juan de Vitoria was hired.³⁴ Like all who followed him, Vitoria was rigorously held to his duty of teaching the choirboys. Bartolomé de Covarrubias was maestro 1571-1579; Francisco Cairos was maestro until January 14, 1603. On February 4, the chapter decided to invite Pedro Bermúdez, and on February 28, 1603, called him to Puebla without subjecting him to competition.³⁵

However, only after a preannounced formal competition was Juan de Ocampo on May 18, 1604, elected by Puebla Cathedral authorities to the organ prebend paying an annual 350 pesos.³⁶ Ocampo soon tired of the daily round of organ playing. One of Gaspar Fernandes's chief qualifications for the post of maestro de capilla at Puebla Cathedral was his added ability to serve as organist. On September 15, 1606, he was received as Puebla maestro, with an annual salary of 500 gold pesos.³⁷ Conformable with a testimonial brought with him, he left Guatemala July 12. His salary was therefore made retroactive to that departure date. One week later the cathedral chapter added another 100 pesos to his annual salary for taking care of the choirboys and training them.³⁸ On September 26 the chapter went still further and named him organist—at the same time raising his stated yearly income to a total of 650 pesos.³⁹

This amount did not include tips for funerals and other special occasions. Nor did it include extra pay for specially composed festive music. On October 10, 1606, the choirbook copyist Luis Lagarto⁴⁰ received 50 pesos for composing chanzonetas to welcome the new bishop of Puebla, Alonso de la Mota y Escobar. Henceforth, Fernandes himself composed all such welcoming and festive music. On November 21, 1606, the Puebla cathedral chapter paid him 40 pesos for paper, ink, and copying costs of his chanzonetas composed since arrival, with the stipulation that they be placed in the cathedral archive.⁴¹ His most important extant welcome music dates from 1612, in October of which year he wrote a Latin motete a 5 para la entrada del birrey (motet a 5, for the entrance of the Viceroy [Diego Fernández de Córdoba, 13th Viceroy of Mexico, ruled from October 28, 1612, to March 14, 1621]) and two chanzonetas, one a 4, the other a 5, honoring the same viceroy during his stopover in Puebla en route to Mexico City.⁴²

The chief external events of Fernandes's 23-year sojourn at Puebla can be grouped under these four headings: (1) recruitment of new singing and instrumental personnel; (2) problems related to music instruction, and the constantly changing roster of choirboys; (3) conflicting paid music engagements outside the cathedral, leading in at least one instance in 1618 to his being fired (although soon thereafter reinstated); (4) conflicting duties at the organ bench and at the conductor's stand, leading in 1622 to the hiring of a coadjutor maestro de capilla, Juan Gutiérrez de Padilla.

In chronological order, the new singers hired during Fernandes's régime included: Luis de León, as tenor at 200 pesos, December 1606 (A.C., vi, fol. 35); Jusepe Sánchez January 9, 1607 (fol. 40); Antonio de Alfaro at 150 pesos, with the duty of carrying the heavy choirbooks in and out of the choir enclosure⁴³ and any other task ordered by the succentor, November 9, 1607 (fol. 65); Juan Bautista March 11, 1608 (fol. 82^v); Padre Pablo Rodrigues Tavera, presbítero at 200 pesos, October 31, 1608 (fol. 127); Diego Suárez as tuple cantor January 30, 1609 (fol. 136^v); Mateo Marín at 60 pesos June 16, 1609 (fol. 148); Francisco de Olivera, who was raised to 300 pesos August 23, 1610⁴⁴ (fol. 188^v); Bartolomé de Salas at 200 pesos October 11, 1613 (A.C., vii [1613–1622], fol. 18^v), five years later having become a priest raised to 400 pesos (300 for singing, 100 from capellanía de coro) on March 6, 1618 (fol. 154^v), named substitute maestro de capilla, designated to make an inventory of the cathedral choirbooks, and his salary raised May 5, 1620 in order to restrain him from his announced intent of returning to Spain (fol. 229^v);⁴⁵ Bartolomé de la

⁴⁴ Olivera began earlier. The chapter gave a 100-peso advance on January 18, 1608 (ibid., 76). He was then listed as cantor y capellán. On August 16, 1616, he was hired as a cantor contrabajo at Mexico City Cathedral, but returned to Puebla to become succentor January 11, 1619.

⁴⁵ Still restless, Salas announced his imminent departure for the viceroyalty of Peru in mid-1626, whereupon the chapter on August 11, 1626, assigned his task of correcting the choirbooks, keeping them mended and in order, for a yearly 100 pesos, to Padre Melchor Álvarez, former master of the choirboys.

Orden at 150 pesos April 22, 1614 (fol. 35); Juan Bautista Almeyda at 100 pesos September 23, 1614 (fol. 55), raised to 150 September 13, 1616 (fol. 105^v); Blas Rodríguez de Celada as tenor (in place of Luis de León) at 200 pesos October 11, 1614 (fol. 64); Joseph de Araujo at 150 pesos (fol. 65), raised to 200 May 6, 1616 (fol. 94), and to 250 on the bishop's recommendation May 12, 1617 (fol. 128); Gaspar de Negreros raised to 250 September 15, 1615 (fol. 80^v), and to 300 in conformity with the bishop's request August 22, 1617 (fol. 137); Bartolomé Yniguez de Mandojana, at 200 pesos plus room and board in the Seminario de San Juan Evangelista, November 20, 1615 (fol. 85^v); Gerónimo de Vega at 50 pesos, on the recommendation of his employer the cathedral chantre, February 5, 1616 (fol. 91^v); Francisco Ruiz Osorio at 250 pesos November 11, 1616 (fol. 112); Manuel Carvalho raised to 250 pesos January 13, 1617 (fol. 117^v-118); Juan Bautista Campoverde, presbítero at 100 pesos June 13, 1617 (fol. 131^v); Bartolomé Sambrano raised from 50 to 100 pesos June 13, 1617 (fol. 131^v); Gerónimo Ramírez de Arellano as tuple at 200 pesos November 10, 1617 (fol. 143), raised to 250 May 23, 1625; Julián Bautista, perhaps an ex-choirboy, at 50 pesos October 6, 1620 (fol. 248^v); Antonio Pérez at 80 pesos April 23, 1621 (fol. 264); Francisco Ruiz Ossorio as músico tenor at 350 pesos, with the bishop's approval, in late 1623 (A.C., viii [1623-1627], fol. 40^v); Luis Barreto, presbítero at 450 pesos October 2, 1625 (see below, page 64).⁴⁶

The instrumentalists hired during 1606-1629 were often expected not only to play their instruments but also to sing when needed. The nearness of Mexico City accounts for the frequent trading back and forth of instrumentalists. On June 27, 1606, Andrés Depro was hired as ministril at 150 pesos de oro común on condition that he take lessons twice weekly with Félix de Morales,⁴⁷ the veteran cathedral bassoonist. On January 9, 1607, the cathedral chapter issued a four-year contract to Andrés Depro at 350 pesos (50 of which was to be for playing the cornett or singing, the rest for other instruments), Antonio Bautista at 300 pesos, and Alonso Bautista at 250 pesos.⁴⁸ As soon as the contracted quadrennium expired, both Antonio and Alonso Bautista transferred to Mexico City Cathedral, either shortly after or before failing to have their Puebla contracts renewed.⁴⁹ Having dismissed these instrumentalists, Puebla Cathedral had to petition a Cholula monastery, famous for its music, to lend a quartet of Indians attached to the monastery to play 1611 Corpus

⁴⁷ When given a 500-peso salary advance January 11, 1608, he was listed as both baxón y cantor.

⁴⁹ The act of March 17, 1611, reads: "se mando que los ministriiles desta catedral se tengan por despedidos en quanto al oficio de menestriiles excepto el baxon con quien se haran nuevo concierto y que se les notifique porque no pretendan ygnorancia." On August 30, 1611, Antonio Baptista presented the Mexico City Cathedral chapter with Archbishop García Guerra's recommendation to the post of ministril sacabuche. On February 14, 1612, the Mexico City chapter voted to dismiss Alonso Baptista ministril for having used a sick leave to visit Puebla.

Christi and its octave in Puebla.⁵⁰ Of necessity Puebla welcomed back in 1612 some of the very ministriales let go in 1611. But trouble with them still brewed, for the same reasons as of yore, namely absenteeism every time a lucrative event outside the cathedral lured them away. On September 18, 1612, the chapter suspended four instrumentalists and a singer who had accompanied the regidor Melchor de Cuéllar to such an outside paid event.⁵¹ But, as previously, the cathedral found no better substitutes and had to take back even the leader of the delinquents.⁵² On September 13, 1616, Puebla Cathedral hired Gerónimo del Río,⁵³ a ministril sacabuche who had been engaged for 250 at Mexico City when he turned up there freshly arrived from Castile November 26, 1613. On October 9, 1618, Antonio de Vega was received as menestril y corneta del choro at an annual 400 pesos. On February 15, 1622, Padre Manuel Carvalho (probably the same Carvalho who was a singer in 1617) was received as cantor y vajón at 250 pesos in place of Francisco Paella, who had transferred to Mexico City. On August 22, 1623, shortly after the arrival of the new co-adjutor maestro de capilla Juan Gutiérrez de Padilla, Benito de Padilla was hired as cantor y ministril at 200 pesos.⁵⁴ Gerónimo del Río having died shortly before August 27, 1625, Julián Baptista (who had been a singer five years) was named as his successor, but on an interim basis only.⁵⁵ Although he did manage to hang on, and to be raised from 200 to 300 pesos on June 20, 1625, the chapter wanted a better replacement. The better replacement was found when on November 19, 1624, Fernando Baptista was received as menestril and cantor at 400 pesos, with the obligation of assisting at the music stands of both the instrumentalists and choir singers.⁵⁶

The second large rubric under which Fernandes's epoch at Puebla can be discussed is his discharge in person or by deputy of the chapelmastor's duty to train a constantly renewed group of choirboys. José de Espinosa, a bachiller cantor who went to Guadalajara on cathedral business in October, 1606, was hired on September 18, 1608, to relieve Fernandes of the chores of teaching the choirboys plainchant and of giving them their daily lesson in polyphonic music.⁵⁷ On June 8, 1610,

⁵⁰A.C., vi, fol. 226 (May 31, 1611): "mando que baya persona a san andres de cholula y pida en nombre desta cathedral al padre guardian que esta alli la musica de chirimias que tienen aquel conuento para la fiesta del sacramento desta yglesia y ocharabio y seles paguen alos yndios musicos su trabajo."

⁵¹Ibid., fol. 258^v (September 18, 1612): "se mandaron despedar a francº pacheco andres deporo Juan bautista bela y antonio bautista menestriales y a alº gomez cantor desta santa yglesia y del seruicio della porque auiendose notificado de parte deste cauildo para que no fueran con el Regº melchor de cuellar ni hiçieran ausencia del seruicio desta santa yglesia se ausentaron sin atender al que seles mando—."

⁵²A.C., vii, fol. 34 (April 11, 1614): "que a francº pacheco menestril desta santa ygl^a se le libran adelantado a quenta de su salº deste año de seiscientos y catorze trecientos pºs de oro comun dando fiancas que los seruira y pagara y si muriere o faltare q el fiador los pagara."

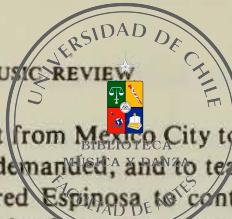

⁵³Ibid., fol. 105^v. Both Bishop Mota y Escobar and Prebendary Ocampo had intervened in getting 400 pesos for him, 100 for singing, 300 "por menestril con oblig^{on} de acudir a todo lo que fuere menester a la capilla y a los oficios que los demas menestriales."

⁵⁴A.C., viii (1623-1627), fol. 28.

⁵⁵Ibid., fols. 77^v-78. For being interim cantor y vajón, Julián Baptista was offered a yearly 200 pesos.

⁵⁶Ibid., fol. 96: "con obligacion de acudir y asistir a ambos facistoles con salario de quatrocientos" (300 for menestril, 100 for cantor).

⁵⁷A.C., vi, fol. 120: "en este dia por el dho dean y cauildo se mando que los moços de choro y su ministerio tenga a su cargo el bachiller juseph de espinosa cantor con cargo de darles liçon de canto de

Agustín Naval was brought from Mexico City to substitute for the succentor, or for Fernandes when occasion demanded, and to teach the choirboys singing.⁵⁸ On July 8, 1616, the chapter ordered Espinosa to continue teaching the choirboys plainchant, but required Fernandes from now on to instruct them in measurable music, "as is his obligation."⁵⁹ This arrangement continued until January 31, 1617, when the chapter decided to replace Espinosa and at the same time again relieve Fernandes of any choirboy daily lessons in polyphony.⁶⁰ On April 11, 1617, Melchor Álvarez, who had first been hired as a singer for 150 pesos on July 4, 1606, and who had by now become a priest, began teaching the choirboys at Espinosa's former salary of 100 pesos de oro común.⁶¹ Espinosa next obtained a prebend in Valladolid [Morelia] Cathedral, but returned to Puebla before June 23, 1623, on which date the Puebla chapter allowed him an honored seat in coro.⁶²

One of Juan Gutiérrez de Padilla's stipulated duties when he was engaged October 11, 1622, was to give the choirboys and other singers an hour's lesson in polyphony every working day between 10 and 11. However, no added salary was allotted for this duty. For teaching not only the cathedral choirboys but also any other suitable boys measurable music, he was on July 16, 1624, at the bishop's suggestion, offered an additional yearly 100 pesos.⁶³ Meanwhile, Padre Melchor Álvarez, who continued teaching plainchant as maestro of the moços de coro, was on January 7, 1625, admonished for allowing them to enter coro without wearing their surplices.⁶⁴

Because of the expense and trouble that maintaining a first-class music establishment entailed, Puebla Cathedral authorities were understandably loath to lend their musical personnel gratis to outsiders. Even more important was it to the Puebla Cathedral chapter that their own salaried musical personnel not hire themselves out individually without express permission. The temptation to earn extra cash at nearby churches and convents during Holy Week was so great that on April 7, 1609, the chapter instructed Fernandes to inform his musicians that they would be fined 50

⁵⁸Ibid., fol. 181^v. His salary was predated to May 20, 1610, date of his departure from Mexico City.

⁵⁹A.C., vii, fol. 99: "se mando que el bachiller Juseph de espinosa maestro de los moços de choro desta yglesia enseñe y de lision de canto llano y bersos a los moços de choro que estan a su cargo. y que el mº de capilla gaspar fernandez de lision a los mosos de choro de canto de organo como tiene obligan^{on}."

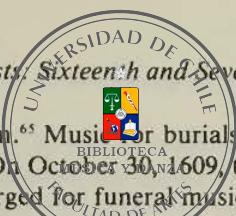

⁶⁰Ibid., fol. 119^v: "se mando que desde oy no les corra el salario al Rº espinosa y al maestro de capilla gaspar fernandez, por la enseñanza y doctrina de los moços de choro y que el sochante trate con Su S.º lo que en esto se dueve hazer."

pesos de tepuzque for each violation.⁶⁵ Music for burials in and outside the cathedral posed an additional problem. On October 30, 1609, the chapter set 40 pesos de tepuzque as the minimum to be charged for funeral music in the cathedral.⁶⁶ Either because Fernandes and his musicians were denied individual profit under this scheme, or for some other reason, he needed a salary advance of 300 pesos on January 5, 1610.⁶⁷ On July 6, 1612, the chapter in effect proscribed Fernandes and his musicians from assisting at any burials whatsoever outside the cathedral.⁶⁸ Needing more money, Fernandes in 1615 returned to repairing the cathedral organs,⁶⁹ a task that in 1610 had been assigned to someone else. On January 9, 1615, the chapter also voted to place him on a yearly salary of 60 pesos for henceforth keeping both the large and small cathedral organs in playable condition.⁷⁰

Miffed because they were not now being allowed to join the chapelmasters in earning tips at outside ceremonies, the cathedral singers had become so slothful that on the same day (January 9, 1615) the chapter passed a rule requiring all the singers and instrumentalists henceforth to take lessons with Fernandes singly or as a group, whenever and wherever he specified.⁷¹ As penalty for refusing to take the lessons, fines were to be levied. Again, on April 27, 1618, the chapter had to warn the singers as a group and as individuals not to sally forth singing polyphony at any burial without express permission.⁷²

Because Fernandes, Bartolomé Sambrano, and José Sánchez led a disobedient group that without such permission provided music at the burial of Andrés Hernández (a Puebla citizen), the chapter on July 14, 1618, dismissed all three from cathedral employ. To make Fernandes's dismissal final, the chapter simultaneously ordered the cathedral treasurer and the succentor, Prebendary Francisco Alfonso, to collect all the bound and loose sheet music in his custody. Pending his delivery of the entire cathedral music archive, payment on Fernandes's already due salary was to be stopped.⁷³ Such Draconian measures quickly brought him and his accomplices to heel. By August 10, he had made his peace with cathedral authorities and on the promise of reform was that day received back into cathedral employment, as of yore.⁷⁴ On September 4, 1618, he and his chosen singers were allowed to officiate at the funeral of María del Águila for the usual stipend.⁷⁵ On October 2, 1618, he and his musicians were permitted to assist at the burial of Diego de Carmona Tamariz,⁷⁶ a former juez and regidor.

⁶⁶Ibid., fol. 163. Charges for funeral music outside the cathedral were also listed.

⁶⁷Ibid., fol. 168: "en el dicho cabildo se mando que se libren a gaspar fernandes maeso de capilla tre-cientos pesos en fabrica adelantados a buena cuenta de sus salarios delos seis meses primeros deste año de seis cientos y diez."

On the death of the succentor Francisco Alfonso, the usual contest was staged to decide his successor. Francisco de Olivera took first place in the competition, Cristóbal de Salas second place. Normally Olivera would have been installed without more ado. But Salas, whose excellent services had merited a special gift January 17, 1612, en gratificación de su buen servicio, and who had been functioning heretofore as the monitor who signed the musicians' attendance sheets, was allowed for the time being to divide the post with Olivera—each serving as succentor in alternate weeks.⁷⁷ Each was to receive an annual 150 pesos as succentor, Olivera an added 50 for singing polyphony during weeks when Salas served as succentor in charge of plainchant.

After the chapter saw that this division of succentor's labors worked satisfactorily, the idea of dividing the chapelmaster's duties arose next. This separation became an urgent necessity when Fernandes's ability to function simultaneously as both organist and maestro de capilla began declining. In the spring of 1621 he was sick. By June 8, 1621, the chapter greatly feared that the special Corpus Christi music annually required would not be properly rehearsed. The canons therefore passed a motion requiring the singers to start repairing to Fernandes's house for practice sessions. To put teeth into the motion, they stipulated a four-peso fine against each singer for each rehearsal missed. Fernandes's word alone was to determine who had missed.⁷⁸

Throughout his entire Puebla career Fernandes continued being always referred to as the organ substitute—while Ocampo remained titular organist, drawing the prebendary's salary of 350 pesos and paying Fernandes 300 of the 350. Ocampo's musical services to the cathedral included (1) endowment of the polyphonic celebration of March 12 (Gregory I) recorded in the minutes of the Puebla chapter meetings of September 13, 1619, and of July 10, 1620; (2) collection of a debt owed the cathedral since Bishop Diego Romano's time for a small organ supplied to the convent of Jesús María (minutes of February 28, 1620); (3) numerous musical committee assignments; (4) and at death, endowment for his annual remembrance with a sumptuous polyphonic celebration (November 8, 1633). He made the cathedral his universal legatee.

Between June 8, and October 11, 1622, negotiations for a coadjutor maestro de capilla yielded fruit. Juan Gutiérrez de Padilla—a native of Málaga who had served successively as maestro at Jerez de la Frontera and of Cádiz Cathedral, where he was elected on March 7, 1616⁷⁹—began his duties as Fernandes's coadjutor October 11, 1622. The chief difficulties posed by having both Fernandes and his designated successor together on the cathedral payroll during the next few years arose not between them but with their musical subordinates, who resented the division of the tips for funerals, receptions, and other extraordinary ceremonies. Since tips were divided pro rata, the singers and instrumentalists loudly demurred against Fernandes and Padilla, each of whom gobbled up a chapelmastor's share. After two maestros' shares were taken out, nothing but a few feathers and chicken wings were left for their subordinates. In chapter meetings held December 6⁸⁰ and 20,⁸¹ 1622, the canons tried to placate the singers, but were not too successful.

By Christmas of 1624 Padilla was composing all the special Christmas music.⁸² During Lent of 1625 he was so firmly in control that the chapter gave him sole authority to fine any singer who failed to attend any rehearsal called by him.⁸³ The number of church feasts celebrated with specially composed music increased during Pension began being so celebrated.⁴⁴ In 1628 Immaculate Conception was added to the obligatory days for polyphonic music.⁴⁵ Fernandes died in mid-September 1629 (see below, page 65).

By unkind accidents of transmission, Fernandes's entire extant oeuvre survives not at Puebla, but at Guatemala and Oaxaca Cathedrals. At Guatemala, his works (those with text are in Latin) are found in Choirbook IIab—a libro de fascistol, measuring 43 by 23 cm, of 259 leaves containing two foliations.

Benedicamus Domino a 4, Tone I, CB IIb 32^v-33; Benedicamus Domino a 4, Tone II, CB IIb 46^v-47; Benedicamus Domino a 4, Tone III, CB IIb 72^v-73; Benedicamus Domino a 4, Tone IV, CB IIb 91^v-92; Benedicamus Domino a 4, Tone V, CB IIb 112^v-113; Benedicamus Domino a 4, Tone VI, CB IIb 138^v-139; Benedicamus Domino a 4, Tone VII, CB IIb 158^v-159; Benedicamus Domino a 4, Tone VIII, "Canon a fine ad principium usque semel adque iterum semibrevia suisque numeras," CB IIb 178^v-179.

At the Oaxaca Cathedral, Fernandes's pieces are all in a yellow, parchment-bound, 284-folio autograph miscellany (measuring 22 by 28 cm), most of which is taken up with his vernacular pieces. The earliest is dated 1609, three years after he reached Puebla, the latest 1620, two years before Gutiérrez de Padilla's arrival. Also, the miscellany contains a few Latin works and untitled organ pieces. Even were it no more than a record of the villancicos and chanzonetas sung at Puebla Cathedral during Fernandes's régime, the volume would be extremely valuable. But when it is further recognized as the earliest extensive collection of New World vernacular music, the volume leaps to the forefront of American musical treasures.

A decade or so after Fernandes's death, one of his admirers and pupils carried it to Oaxaca and in the middle of fol. 73 penned this note for posterity: Este Libro es de gabriel Ruiz de morga (rubric) / quien selo allare le dara su Mas goya dios / que nos beamos ("This book belongs to Gabriel Ruiz de Morga; God, whom we hope to see, grant him blessing who finds it"). The December 10, 1967, issue of Magazine Dominical, Sunday supplement to the Mexico City newspaper Excelsior, included at page 3 facsimiles of two openings from the manuscript (fol. 140^v-141, 219^v-220); and in The Musical Quarterly, LIV/4 (October 1968) was published a transcription of the Guineo at fol. 243^v-244. This Guineo was in turn recorded by the Roger Wagner Chorale under the direction of Roger Wagner January 19, 1975, and is included as the last item on Side One in the Eldorado-label album, Festival of Early Latin American Music, issued by the UCLA Latin American Center, of which Dr. Johannes Wilbert was then Director. Latin American Colonial Music Anthology (Washington: General Secretariat, Organization of American States, 1975) contains at pages 113-149 transcriptions of the Agnus Dei I, II, III from Fernandes's Missa Sancti Josephi, found at fol. 151^v-153, in this Oaxaca codex; of the Latin secular motet Elegit eum Dominus a 5 at fol. 132^v-133; and of eleven vernacular pieces—four of which are "Black" pieces (Guineo or Negrito) and two of which are "Indian" (mestizo e indio).

⁴⁵"A.C., ix, fol. 76 (November 7, 1628). See below p. 65, n. 115.

Since the codex contains nothing that is attributed except Fernandes's original vocal works or a rare organ transcription made by him, one might expect a strictly chronological sequence from beginning to end. In general, such an order does hold: fols 171v–172 contain a 1613 Corpus Christi villancico, so dated, 192v–193 a 1614 Corpus Christi, 224v–225 a 1615 Corpus Christi, and 256v–257 a 1618 Corpus Christi. However, the Christmas villancico a 6 for 1616 comes at fols. 270v–271.

The high incidence of Portuguese villancicos (fols. 45v–46, 59v–60, 81v–82, 117v–118, 167v–168, 182v–183, 208v–210, 247v–248, 262v–263) happily confirms Fernandes's own origins. Either he himself or some other of the numerous Portuguese nationals resident in early seventeenth-century Puebla wrote the texts for these. In contrast with the few villancicos labeled Portugués in other Hispanic American archives, Fernandes's always treat the language with respect. Because of the large role played by negros, negrillas, guineos, and similarly captioned pieces (fols. 11v–12, 46v–47, 60v–61, 83v–84, 100v–101, 118v–119, 166v–167, 197v–198, 207v–208, 217v–218, 232v–234, 243v–244, 263v–264) this codex will always remain prime source material for students of the African musical legacy to the Americas. Music adapted to the Tlaxcalan dialect at fols. 99v–100, 133v–134, and 219v–220 cannot be called the earliest surviving polyphony to an Indian-language text—the Náhuatl hymns in the so-called Valdés codex⁸⁶ dated about 1599 are older—but certainly comes close to being the first. In addition to the few liturgical pieces clustered between fols. 148v–157 and 159v–161, the Oaxaca codex contains also the earliest secular work on a Latin text anywhere encountered in a Latin American archive—Elegit eum Dominus at fols. 132v–133 (this is the above mentioned motet for the 13th viceroy's entrance into Puebla). The textless pieces at fols. 16v–17, 29v–31, 41v–43, 53v, 63v–64, 86v–88, 89v–90, and 108 may well have been intended for instruments. The organ work at 16v–17 is attributed to Guerrero.

Despite the vicissitudes of travel and time, the codex remains remarkably coherent. Even the worm holes do not usually trespass on writing or notation. Quite obviously a leaf (or more) has been lost at the beginning—since present folio 1 begins with altus and bassus of a Christmas villancico, Angel bello. After folio 107 (the verso of which is blank at the top) at least one leaf has been torn out before the leaf presently numbered 108. Because of the vernacular texts, itemizing of the present codex will be not alphabetically by title, but seriatim by folio numbers. Unless otherwise designated, each piece is a villancico a 4, copied choirbook fashion, with all voices spread across the opening.

Items preceded by a plus-sign (+) bear Fernandes's signature as composer, but everything else is presumably his original work or his arrangement also.

- + 85v-86 El chiquito que naçao de la birgen soberana llora por vna mançana q su padre le comio. A 6. Ti Ti A A Te B. Like most of Fernandes's villancicos, this starts with an extended solo (Tiple 1 in this instance). The first tutti is marked ·S·, and back to this tutti Fernandes sends his singers after the coplas.
- 86v Un domingo de mañana. Dança a 3. Textless.
- + 87-88 Textless Responsion a 5. Ti Ti A Te B. C Major music in C 3 and C mensurations.
- + 88v-89 Del misterio de la fe quien sera Anton testigo. A 5. Textless copla a 3.
- 89v-90 Textless, untitled piece a 4.
- 90v-91 Duerme niño descansa. Coplas a duo follow estribillo.
- 91v-92 A la birgen q le dan acogida en un portal.
- + 92v-93 Que vivo contento digo por vos virgen escogida huelgome q a dios deis vida para q vivia comigo. A 5.
- + 93v-94 A fe niño dios que si moris vivire.
- + 94v-95 Sí quieres tenerte niño has vn pinino.
- + 95v-96 Y los boluereis. After this Responsion a 4 comes another («otro a 4») at the same opening: Siempre mi niño q os miro.
- + 96v-96 A For bien de hombre caydos dios. De la concepcion a 4.
- + 96 A-97 Fues la pascua se a llegado y e de dor como señora.
- + 97v-98 Virgen muy bien es que quade para el remedio de nos. Coplas (solo) start: Oy Virgen en vos contemplo de dios.
- + 98v-99 Begins textless. Tutti starts: Hijo os tal qual el os quiso. A la concepcion a 6.
- + 99v-100 Ximololali siñola taticpan. En indio a 5.
- + 100v-101 Dame albricia mano anton que Sisu naçae en guineo. Una lunçaya y vn viejo su pagre son. Negrito a 4.

- + 101v-102 Tios mio mi goraçon mo pan p' pachí negual amo xichoça abijion que llororeis el maçegual amo xichoça abijion amo BIBLIOTECA Text repetition continues. No coplas. Headed «messtizo a 4». Ti Ti A Te.
- + 102v-103 A la Bella báñ mis amores madre dios me los guarde. Responcion a 5.

- + 104v-105 Niño si aun siendo tan niño a los reyes sujetais que no harezis quando crescais. A los reyes a 3. Epiphany.
- + 105v-106 Que buscan tan sin consuelo Joseph y su bella esposa. Coloquio a 8 al niño perdido. The second choir answers the query of the first thus: Buscan la joya preciosa de un niño q es rey del cielo.
- + 106v Sin mi fabor no ay aquí que todos tres os cansais. Although headed «a 4», only one voice part appears on this page, and folio 107 is crossed out.
- 107v Blank at the top. «Tenor A 4. D. muñoz Despinosa 1620» at bottom. Between 107v and 108 a leaf has been torn out.
- 108 Unidentifiable alto and tenor parts of a textless piece.
- + 108v-109 Tanto os quiso regalar alma dios q le a costado. A 5. Blessed Sacrament.
- + 109v-110 Sobrava Xpo asentarnos a bñia [nuestra] mesa a cenar. Del Sanctissimo Sacramento a 3.
- + 110v-111 Estas bes cogido os an. Lacks coplas.
- + 111v-112 Allega os al almoneda. A 5. Two coplas.
- + 112v-113 Si Adam por su poca fe. A 6. Two coplas.
- + 113v-114 Como sobre dese pan el misterio. Three coplas solo follow estribillo.
- + 114v-115 Si jugais a esconder Dios de amor. A 5.
- + 115v-116 Como puede ser del cielo pan.
- + 116v-117 El que dese pan comiere. Del Santiss.º Sacramento.
- + 117v-118 Bem aja aquesta padiera q este pão forneira. Portuguesa a 5.
- + 118v-119 Si dia piensas si dia bebes mientes sangre de Dios. After introductory alto solo, tiple 1 starts: Gurumbe gurumbe ma si qui cansame que preso hastame de si pan qui dame q trasi paño li Santo Tome. This villancico a 5 is headed «en negro y biscayno».
- + 119v-120 Almas a la vida apriesa. A 3. Ti Ti A. Sacrament.
- 120v Me ofrese Dios de gracia. Responcion del romance de la plana de adelante.
- + 121 Mas que nunca lleva el cielo ni fertelize la tierra. Romance A 3 Del Sanctissimo Sacram.º. After the romance comes an estribillo: Que flor, espiga, granos.
- + 121v-122 Pedro el cielo e menester y de bos puede comprar q para nos conseriar. A Sant Pº a 5. Coplas sung by tenor solo.
- + 122v-123 Si esas prisas q veis. A Sant Pº a 4. Romance at start assigned to tiple.
- + 123v-124 Para pan me dad madre antes q se acabe. De Corpus a 4. Coplas a duo running to great length.
- + 124v-125 Quien hecha a este pan el agua Dios. De Corpus a 4. Three coplas assigned tiple 1. A later hand had has added some irrelevant matter on folio 125, the propriety of which is contestable.
- 125v-126 Que mucho fenix salgais. A 4. Lacks coplas.
- 126v-127 A del suelo agua va q el pan. Sacrament.
- + 127v-128 A de arriba a del cortijo. A 8. Double choir Sacrament. Lacks coplas.
- 128v-129 Si el pan y vino son. A 4. Lack coplas.
- + 129v-130 Fuego fuego. Respuesta a 5 para sant ignacio. After the opening tutti shout (Fire, Fire!) comes a pregunta solo: Que es la grita y vozeria (what's the noise and shouting about?). Nearly all early American villancicos, chanzonetas, and respuestas honoring Ignatius Loyola share boldly dramatic texts.
- 130v-131 Alma como puede ser. Sacrament.
- + 131v-132 Ha de la posta del suelo. Dela assumpcion a 6. Tiple 2 starts. Tiple 1 interrupts with the query: Quien pasa, diga, quien ba (who passes, say, who goes there?).
- 132v-133 Elegit eum Dominus. Moite a 5 para la entrada del birrey. Ti Ti A Te B.
- 133v Para el gusto oy obra vidia cante la gala en bñia ilustre venida. Para los indios de Tlaxcala a 4; at 134; «Otro para los mismos indios.» Gaily stepping processional music in F Major. Starts as a welcome song for a visiting official or dignitary.
- + 134v Soñé que soñaria. A Sant Geronimo. Para monjas a 4.
- + 135 A quien apedreis queréis diuino y diestro. A san Geronimo.
- 135v-136 De amor geronimo sancto pelicano. Otro sº gerº.
- 136v-137 Si no me engaño Bras y el gusto me desmiente. Para el birrey. A 5. Ti Ti A Te B. David and Abigail (the viceroy and his wife) have come to reign over us. May they continue «por largos años mil, por años». Mensuration changes to 13 for the jubilant refrain. D minor, closing with major chord.
- 137v-138 Oy descubre la grandesa de su gloria.
- 138v-139 Gran capitán por renombre defensor de nuestro Rey guarda el alcázar del rey seran obras de tu nombre. A 5. Ti Ti A Te B. Like the preceding, composed in honor of the viceroy's entry. Headed «otro a 5 Al humano». D minor (one-flat) ending on A Major chord.
- + 139v-140 *Angeles quien como se nombra gertrudis. In honor of St. Gertrude. Lacks coplas. F Major. Companitas de Belén tocad al alua que sale. En nombre de Jesus, nacido de 612 años, a 6. Ti Ti A A Te B. Fast fanfare rhythms, «tocan y tañen a gloria en el cielo y en la tierra». This should be a delightful folkloric piece, with dandan dan and dilin imitating the merry Christmas peal of the Bethlehem bells.*
- + 140v-141 No corras gil tan ufano a ber al niño diuino.
- 142 Copia of Campanitas de Belén (140v-141).

- 142v-143 Bras si llora dios.
- 143v-144 Zagalejo de perlas hijo del alua. Lacks coplas. Invitación in contrary motion.
- 144 Christus natus est nobis. Although tuple of this Christmas invitatory is headed «a 4», no other voice parts appear on the page.
- + 144v-145 Quien llama quien esta. A 6. Copla solo.
- + 145v-146 De una Virgen hermosa. Lacks coplas.
- + 146v-147 Nora buena vengais al mundo. Six coplas a duo follow estribillo.
- + 147v-148 El niño que tiembla agora a fe. Two coplas solo.
- + 149v-153 Credo, Sanctus, and Agnus movements of a Mass a 3 in honor of St. Joseph. 148v-149 «Patrem» through «*et homo factus est»; 149v-150 «Crucifixus» through «*vitam venturi secula amem»; 150v-151 «Sanctus» plus «Benedictus», with a note at the end of the tenor part saying «adelante dos ojas estas pleni y Ossana»; 151v-152 «Agnus» through «*pacem»; 152v-153 «Pleni sunt celi» through «*Osanna»» plus «Agnus 2º» (ending with «miserere nobis»). This group of Tone VIII Mass movements for two altos and tenor cadences plagally, except in Agnus 3. Agnus 2 requires Ti Ti Te, and Agnus 3 (second of the pair at 151v-152) demands Ti Ti Te Te. Exceptionally, Agnus 3 closes on C. Throughout it, tuple 2º sings not the liturgical text but «Sancte Joseph ora pro nobis».*
- 153v-156v Kyrie and Gloria movements of a Petrine Mass a 5 (Ti Ti Ti A B), headed: Missa sobre el canto llano de Tu es Petrus. This polytextual cantus firmus Mass returns to Flemish Pfundnoten such as Palestrina had not used since his Ecce Sacerdos magnus. In the Gloria, starting at folio 154v-155, tuple 3 still sings Tu es Petrus in Pfundnoten. Entering always on g or c¹, the time-values of the four-note motito progressively lengthen. The breves of one entry give way to dotted breves at the next entry, then to longas. At folio 156v dotted longas appear. Significantly, however, the value of the rest between the four note incises still remains what it has been throughout: one breve.
- 156v-157 Benedicamus Domino alleluia. At the same opening, two other Benedicamus Domino a 5 «en tiempo de Pascua».
- + 157v-158 Por aquí que mi niño se esconde. Del niño perdido a 5. Ti Ti Ti A B. Three coplas follow estribillo.
- + 158v-159 Buscalo oveja perdida. Romanze a 3 at folio 159 seems to be the continuation of Buscalo.
- + 159v-160 Christus natus est nobis. Invitatorio de navidad a 4.
- + 160v-161 Dixit Dominus. Primer tono. Para monjas a 4.
- + 161v-162 Oy al yelo naçe en Belén. Starts with Romance (three strophes).
- 162v-163 Caro de rosa. Respuesta a 5.
- + 163v-164 Tenga yo salud niño Dios en su birtud, a 5.
- + 164v-165 Pues a fe que si me las tira.
- + 165v-166 Pide al cielo la tierra.
- + 166v-167 Negro salica vení ver ciquito que pari donceya. Negrito a 4.
- + 167v-168 Emprestayme as vosas votinas que me voy a folligar. Portugues a 5.
- + 168v-169 Toca el tamboril andres con saltos de dos en dos, a 6. Starts with tuple solo.
- 169v blank.
- 170 Morenica morena mia, mas hermosa eres q el dia. A 3. Ti A Te. «Del gran hernando Ramirez el bajete solo».
- + 171v-171 A Del niño perdido. Coloquio a 8.
- + 171 Av-172 Rico anillo gran memoria. Corpus de 1613 a 5. Coplas a 3 follow estribillo.
- + 172v-173 Nora buena sea que tenga el villano el pan soberano, a 5.
- + 173v-174 Paso pensamiento el caso, a 5.
- + 174v-175 Mirad el amo que tengo q ses o no sea fiesta. After a three-strophe romanzo comes the estribillo:
Me tiene la mesa puesta, a 4.
Deue de auer poco pan en esta casa.
- + 175v-176 En el combite real, a 6. Starts with romanzo, lacks coplas.
- + 176v-177 Alma el combite. Two coplas, solo, follow estribillo.
- 177v-178 Partis os y no os partis, a 4. Coplas 3 follow.
- + 178v-179 Pusi plimo de mi coraçon Segame gurugumande husiha husite. Del Sanctissimo a 5. Although not so labeled, this is another of Fernandes's Negros.
- 179v-180 Afuera afuera aparta aparta que entra la fe victoriosa.
- + 180v-181 Dios a los hombres combida, a 3. Coplas solo, follow.
- 181v-182 As mininas de meus olhos pidem pão ay Jesus quedito so pão Não choreis q vos darão do pão uiuo que sem olhos. Although not labeled Portuguese, the text defines it thus. No coplas after the estribillo.
- + 182v-183 En dos simples accidentes, a 5.
- + 183v-184 Si machin pan Dios. En biscayno a 4. Ti Ti A Te. In first tutti, all voices sing: Pan de cielo tienes juancho. The word «juancho» crops up regularly in pieces headed «sen biscayno».
- + 184v-185 Bien viaje a capitana q tan gallarda y losana haze por el mar pasaje, a 8. Double choir tribute to Our Lady. Coplas alternate between uples 2.º and 1.º, each singing solo. Perhaps all these many coplas and introductions to estribillos designated as solos were accompanied by Fernandes at the organ.
- + 185v-186 Llegan los quattro al portal adonde la madre virgen tiene el niño entre sus brasos. Ensalada de naiidade a 4. Starts with romanzo. Visitors to the manger entertain the Child with gaytilla, rabele, flauta, tamboril, and other instruments.

- 189v-190 Tanto llanto y tanta pena en noche buena mi Dios, a 5. Ti A Te Te B. Tenor I sings three coplas, replied to by the triple respuesta.
- + 190v-191 Despues que Dios con su sangre os a lauado o la gran Lucia. After the initial three-strophe tenor solo romance, all sing Oy la gran Lucia. Two coplas follow, sung by alto and tenor. Headed «A Sancta lucia a 4».
- 191v-192 Que vais o reyes buscando por naciones estrangeras, a 5. To the tenor soloist's query, the chorus replies (at. 'S'): Un reyno q sea de veras.
- + 192v-193 Que me dezis alma. Corpus de 1614 a 4. Tenor soloist starts. He also sings the two coplas that follows the estribillo.
- + 193v-194 Oy en la parrochia dan pan.
- + 194v-195 A puertas del coraçon, a 5. Coplas — sung by a tenor soloist — are answered by triple respuesta. This is a natural and soft hexachord piece. However, among twenty repetitions of solmization segments, only once does ut appear. Triple I once sings $d^2\ c^2\ b^1\ b\ a\ g\ f$ to the syllables la sol fa mi re ut.
- 196v-197 Gil no puede enpergeñar. Three coplas follow estribillo.
- 197v-198 Para viramia ya negro san rico q grande con chico come pan ligria. Through not so denominated, this is a Negro. Second copla a duo mentions Negro handkerchief dance: Turo sa folgando negra con pañola Jarasca vigola furgana tocando.
- + 198v-199 Despertad diuino Juan pues sois de Dios ganadero mirad por bro cordero por q se a entrado en el pan.
- + 199v-200 Quien de questa blanda gustando sea. Responsion a 4. Starts with romanzo, concludes with coplas a 3.
- + 200v-201 Hombre enfermo y sin aliento q mal tienes. Starts with romanzo, triple solo.
- 201v-202 Mirose el sacro Absalon en la fuente del Dios. Responsion a 4.
- + 202v-203 Llora Maria y llora Joseph tambien, a 6. Ti Ti A A Te B. Unusual abundance of written accidentals. At outset, written a-bb-c (triple I). G minor (one-flat). No romanzo at start, no coplas. Motet-like conception.
- 203v-204 Oy la musica del cielo en dos puntos se cifra Sol y la q le pario. The words «sob» and «la» serve as Guidonian syllables. Coplas a 3 follow estribillo.
- 204 Labrador a toda ley. Responsion a 5.
- + 204v Un reloz a visto Andres q sin verse rueda alguna en el suelo de la vna siendo en el cielo los tres. Copla solo follows estribillo a 4.
- + 205v-206 Bras dis ques mayor que el suelo vna estrella y la luna celestial, a 5. First copla solo (alto 1), second copla a 3.
- + 206v-207 Que jugas tu Juan pastor de lo que el niño a de ser. Lacks coplas.
- + 207v-208 Mano faciquiyo que dia sonaciro en vna porta. Negrity a 5. First copla: Gurumbe como dice viuda gurumbe como mente negliyo gurumbe gurumbe. Second copla: Toca aqui sa guitarriya janquiquiya tocaya.
- + 208v-210 Pois con tanta gracia. Portugues a 6.
- 210v-211 Cante de re mi fa sol la reyna pari day bella La sola sol y mi estrella. Only soft and natural hexachords supply Fernandes with his syllables.
- + 211v Noche tan alegre no la e visto. Para monjas a 4. Ti Ti A B.
- + 212 Me alegra me alienta esta mañanica con tal alborada. «Otro a 4».
- + 212v Sin duda señor q amais pues florras, a 4.
- 213 Pero no q me va a mi la vida en q llore dios.
- + 213v Verbo en carne soberano. Ti Ti A B.
- 214v-215 Virgen seis muy benido al aldea porque os juro por mi vida q hazeis graciosa parida. Ti Ti A B. Coplas a duo follow estribillo.
- 215 Llego a beLEN vn pastor. Responsion a 5.
- + 215v-216 No son todos ruyseñores los q cantem entre las flores. Responsion a 5. Ti Ti Te Te B.
- 216v Alma dormida despierta, a 4. No coplas. Virgen a parirte atrebes entre niebes. «Otro a 4», same opening.
- + 217v-218 Tururu farara con son para san para viramia. Guineo a 4. Instead of the ubiquitous F Major tonality, this black piece ends on G.
- + 218v-219 Cenemos que es noche buena, a 5. Text continues: no cenno yo en dia de ayuno. Following estribillo come coplas a 3, with respuesta.
- 219v-220 Xicochi xicochi conetzin, a 5. Ti A Te Te B.
- + 220v-221 Oy del cielo vn mensajero. Lacks coplas.
- + 221v-222 Si es q aderezarme os provoco cumplid negrito el deseo. Delos reyes, a 5. Ti Ti A Te B. Three-strophe romanzo at start.
- 222v-223 En tres casas de piedras vna negra y blancas dos dio a la gentilidad Dios Jaque y mate de vna ves, a 3. Delos Reyes. Xopla a 3 follows estribillo.
- + 224v-225 Corramos Gil tras de aquel, a 5. Corpus de 1615.
- + 225v-226 Nuevas de gracia infinita, a 5. Copla a 3 follows.
- + 226v-227 Qual es la comida, a 5.
- + 232v-234 Andamo corramo guaguangua gualoguaguangua. Guineo a 5. Refrain words: tumba catumba. Copla starts: Anda corre veremo o lo nonesiyo. Blessed Sacrament.
- 235v-236 Mi diuino amante, a 5. Honoring St. James. Apparently incomplete.
- 236v-237 Del rey piuado vapallo es Santiago a mi fe. Honors St. James.
- 237v-238 Tan enamorada esta el rey por su amada bella. Para monjas, a 4.
- + 238v-239 Venid al repartimiento. Coloquio a 5, para monjas.

- 239v-240 Sabes Bras como entre el heno vn rico. Nauidad de 1615 año; A seis.
 + 240v-241 A Baylar en el coro mosuelas. Responsion a 6.
 + 241v-242 Destas ovejas de aca no cuide el lobo enemigo, a 5.
 + 242v-243 Con vn bel donayre angeles del cielo, a 6.
 + 243v-244 Eso rigor e repente. Guineo a 5.
 244v-245 Guesped guesped que tienes. Biscayna a 6. Two coplas a duo.
 245v Morenita parese la niña porque el sol se le pego, a 3.
 246 Albricias albricias ya del rescate se sabe, a 4. Para la calenda. Monjas.
 + 246v-247 Quando mis ojuelos dormir se quieren.
 + 247v-248 Botay fora. Portuguesa a 6.
 248v Repica Siluano, a 4. Monjas.
 249 *Se cuchamo magri Antona, a 4. Monjas. Among distinguishing traits of these «monjas» pieces is their brevity. Rarely do they begin with romanzes.*
 249v-250 Quando bajo Dios al suelo por subir al hombre. Ensalada a 6. Refrain: tiliñ, tiliñ, tantara, tin, tin, tin.
 + 250v *No lloréis en naciendo dulce amor, a 4. Monjas. Exceptionally includes both romanzes and coplas.*
 + 251 *Si a Belén Carillo vas mil maravillas veras, a 4. Monjas. Includes coplas, but no introductory romanza.*
 251v-252 *O que gozo, a 4. Monjas. Includes two coplas a 3, but no romanza.*
 252v-253 *Principio de la pandorga, a 3. Textless. This instrumental trio, starting in C mensuration, veers to 3. Repeated notes lend vivacity to the last section, which ends on F chord (no key signature).*
 + 253 Av-254 *Sancho es Dios q oy vienes. Biscayno a 4. Refrain: mas de virgin madre biscayna tienes. Dexal al niño, a 4. Monjas. With copla.*
 254v-255 *Buela pensamiento pues vas bolando, a 4. Secular song. No romanza, no copla.*
 255v-256 Regina celi letare, a 4. Plaisong initium inspires opening imitative point.
 + 256v-256 A Hombre no estes descuidado del Dios de infables nombres, a 8. Nombre de Dios. Corpus año de 1618. Double choir.
 256 Av-257 Algun bocado de pan, a 6.
 + 257v-258 Brasa la mesa del rey, a 3.
 + 258v-259 *Ay Dios y que bien que guele. Responsion a 4. More Corpus music follows.*
 + 261v-262 A donde señor os vais que tanto nos aflijis. A la ascension de Cristo nro redemptor, a 5.
 + 262v-263 Ay meu Deus ay bom Jesus como a Deus em pão me dais minha vida gloria he luz, a 6. Portuguesa.
 + 263v-264 Tantarantan A la guerra ban. Guineo a 6. F Major, vigorous march. Copla says: Es así que en Etiopia tiene mucha soldadesca cristiana el preste Juan.
 + 264v-265 De pan panes verdes y espigas. Responsion a 4.
 + 265v-266 Las alabanças diuinas. Sacrament.
 + 266v-267 Señor si es alma os agrada, a 5. Sacrament. Coplas a 3.
 267v-268 Music nueua en mis orejas suena El padre la punto El hijo la canta La letra es caro mea Ved si espansta y el graue tono En clave fe se ordena El canto llano dio vna virgen buena q fue la carne llana pero sancta sobre la qual vn duo se discanta de alma y diuinidad musica llena A tres canto el señor en tres le punto los treinta y tres compases de su vida Mas luego añadia voses Mudo el canto a cinco Canta alegre y en comida Oy cifra aqueste canto todo junto y en vna blanca minima esta tanto.
Here reproduced entirely, the text vaunts some truly striking musical metaphors. Fernandes's setting in F Major (C mensuration) is through composed.
 + 269v-270 Oy a la reyna, a 5. De la Natividad de N^a S^a, a 5. Romanze at start. Coplas (answered by respuesta) follow estribillo.
 + 270v-272 Yo que le vi, a 6. Nauidad de 1616 años.
 + 272v-272 A *Esta noche me cabe la vela Ruego yo a mi Dios que no me duermo y si me durmiere campanicas repiquen de noche tintilin, a 6. Like Campanitas at 140v-141, this villancico imitates bells and percussion: tan talan talan (tenors 1 and 2), tintilin tututu (triples 1 and 2).*
 + 272 Av-273 Disprieta hermano Vicente, a 5. Christmas.
 273v-274 En vn portalejo pobre de vnas groseras pisarras. Romanse a 3 precedes.
 + 276v-277 Sigueme zaglejo vamos a Belén al dichoso paro de la de Joseph. Fuga a duo in vni sonus y Responsion a 5. The fuga (2 triples) involves six voices; alto is on folio 277, 2 tenors in viola clef on 276v, bajo in tenor clef on 277. G minor (one-flat signature), C mensuration.
 + 277v-178v *Que bien q jugarlo sabe. Colloquio a 8. G minor (one flat), \textcircled{D} 3 mensuration. Both choirs consist of Ti A Te B. Written notevalues, all voids, range from minim to breve. Last words of estribillo text that are legible at 278v read thus: Que si en el cielo no cabe en el cerco de amor. Then come coplas, still under \textcircled{D} .*
